

Equipment Description

PETZL GRIGRI: An assisted braking belay device useful for power belays, releasable fixed lines, and more.

PETZL OK: An oval locking carabiner useful for connecting pulleys and other system components.

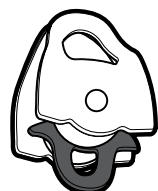

PETZL OMNI: A multi-directional semi-circle carabiner useful for connecting chest harnesses to devices, or other applications where a triaxial load is expected.

PETZL DELTA: A steel triangle maillon useful for connecting the seat attachment points of an Easy Seat to an Omni, or other chest connection point.

PETZL FREINO: A locking carabiner with an additional "braking spur," useful for adding friction and control while lowering or descending with a GRIGRI or other belay device.

PETZL SWIVEL: Used for hauling and in mechanical advantage systems, a swivel can prevent the rope from twisting when the load is turning.

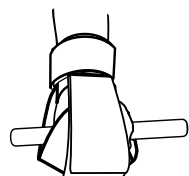

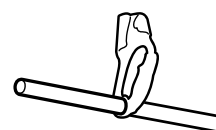

PETZL GEMINI: An efficient double pulley that can be used when building mechanical advantage systems.

PETZL JAG TRAXION: A progress capture double pulley that can be used when building mechanical advantage systems.

PETZL ASCENSION: A handled ascender or "rope clamp" useful for pulling on ropes for progress capture, progression, and more.

HANDLEBAR ASCENDER: A threaded rod may be inserted through the lower attachment hole to accommodate a handlebar for better adaptive grip.

ACTIVE HANDS: A grip assist glove that can help participants with limited grip and/or dexterity hold handlebar ascenders or other tools.

MISTY MOUNTAIN EASY SEAT: An adaptive-specific harness with integral padded seat, chest harness, and back support useful for rope climbing.

PETZL SEGMENT- A 8mm low stretch line useful for building mechanical advantage or hauling systems.

PETZL 8003- A simple and versatile full-body harness useful for climbers who require additional support or security.
